

NORTHSIDE HAPPY NOW

Cars Will Be Operated on Chestnut Hill Spur Track.

REGISTRATION IN COUNTY

All the Polls of Henrico Will Be Opened
Before the Primary to Record New Voters. Candidates Worried Thereby.

The long standing disagreement between the Passenger and Power Company and the citizens of Chestnut Hill, which promised at one time to drag itself into the courts, has at last been settled, and to the eminent satisfaction of the latter.

For upwards of a year or more the matter has been up before the Northside Citizens' Association, and during this time the organization has been nagging the company in an endeavor to force or induce it to perform what the citizens claimed to be its duty toward them. The bone of contention was a spur of track running into Chestnut Hill, and a reduction in the number of cars operated there, with the result that the spur in question was left out. The Northside line begins at Seventh and Broad Streets in Richmond, and ends in Chestnut Hill. A year or fifteen months ago three cars were operated on it, and a regular schedule was used. The company, however, to reduce the number of cars from three to two; the old schedule it retained by cutting off the end of the track in Chestnut Hill, much to the dismay and indignation of the citizens there. The matter was promptly taken up, and the company was interviewed by a committee, but with scant results, and since then, from time to time the question has been persistently brought to the attention of the officials.

At one time there was a movement to take it into the courts. Counsel was consulted with reference to the rights of the citizens, and a subscription was begun for the raising of funds wherewith to prosecute the matter.

The latest attempt to settle the affair amicably was made a few days ago, and it proved successful. A committee from the association called on Mr. Huff and had an eminently satisfactory interview with him. The upshot of the conference was that the General Manager practically agreed to restore the old line. Only two cars will be run, but the same schedule will be kept up. The old track into Chestnut Hill will be abandoned and a new one will be laid running within one square of the destination of the former. The committee which visited Mr. Huff was composed of the following: W. J. Todd, chairman; C. W. Wingfield, C. F. Cross, L. B. Enslow, J. T. Goodwin, Dr. A. A. Kuyk and H. St. George Coalter.

REGISTRATION ALL OVER COUNTY. In response to the request of the Henrico Democratic Committee, the boards of registration of the several districts have ordered the polls to be opened for registration at least one day before the coming primary. The citizens are, rather pleased at this opportunity to register in time to vote in the primary, but the candidates are not a little concerned. Up to the time the Fairchild movement forced registration in the other districts they had not counted on the possible additional voters who would come in before the election, and the late decision on the eve of the primary destroys their plans and entails considerable additional work, which will have to be performed in a very short time. They are already beginning, however, to renew the campaign, which had been about practically arranged.

Two or three of the boards met yesterday at the courthouse and arranged for the registration. The Varina Board fixed the dates as follows: Carter's Precinct, August 20th, September 14th and 15th; Whitlock's Precinct, August 21st, September 15th and 16th; Four Mile Run, August 22nd, September 16th and 17th; Barton Heights, August 23rd; Chestnut Hill, August 24th. The registration in Tuckahoe will be August 23rd, 24th, 25th and September 2d.

IMPROVEMENT OF SCHOOLS. The County School Board met yesterday and transacted several matters of interest and importance. Accounts for the year were wound up, and everything was found to be in an excellent condition. With the exception of the very general sickness among the pupils in some sections of the county, the past session has proved a very successful one.

At the meeting yesterday the board finally took some action in reference to the much discussed raising of the standard of the schools throughout the county. It was decided to adopt the Richmond standard, and to see that it was maintained.

A committee was appointed to adapt this system to the county schools and to make a report. Great benefits are expected to result from this change.

The Varina Board has decided to remove the school at Fort Harrison to a point two and a half miles nearer the Darbytown Road. The school was too near one or two others located in the same neighborhood.

COLLISION DISCHARGED. W. H. Collison, the man arrested as a suspicious character, and suspected of being a spy, in the matter of the Broad Street car with dynamite, was given a hearing yesterday before Squire George W. Thomas, and was discharged. It was proved clearly that the man could not have been in the neighborhood at the time of the happening. It is expected that he will leave the city very shortly.

Four white men were given a hearing yesterday morning before Squire James T. Lewis and sent to jail for thirty days for stealing six bottles of whiskey from the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway. Two of the men are James E. Goode and E. B. Jewell. The other two—J. E. West and W. Jack—were arrested on the same charge, and on the testimony they gave against their associates.

RUN FOR CONSTABLE. At the earnest solicitation of many of his friends, Mr. E. P. Brothers has announced himself a candidate for constable from Fairfield District. Mr. Brothers is a young man, but an energetic one, and he will make a good fight for the office.

There is no PIANO on earth that is better than the CONOVER.

There is no possible way of making a piano any better. We build it from the ground up and put into it every possible dollar that will add quality, and this means quality of material, quality of finish on the case, quality of tone.

THE CONOVER PIANO

is an instrument of national reputation, which offers prospective piano purchasers the safest investment.

You can't tell a piano by the appearance. The wash of gold often covers brass, and a pretty case often covers worthless mechanism.

It is better to take no such risk.

Avoid all uncertainty by investing in the reliable kind.

CASINO BILL THIS WEEK

Vaudeville Now on for a Brief
Season.

GOSSIP OF THE STAGE

Revival of Interest in Shakespeare's Plays—Maud Adams' New Play.

John Drew's Role Next Season.

Now that the experiment has been tried and has proved so successful, no one is at all surprised that the summer season at the Casino should have started out with such wonderful success. Every one, in fact, says "I told you so," and declares that Richmond play-goers are so hungry for shows that "anything" would go. Managers Wells and McKee, however, have a very fair idea of the local play-goers' whims, and they long ago decided to make the season as brilliant as possible, even if it was, perforce, brief.

The opening bill, the Al Haynes Company, in the revised and rearranged farce, "Too Much Married," caught a tremendous house last Monday night, and sustained the enthusiasm of the opening night all through the week. This week's attraction promises to make a new and even a better record. It is vaudeville of the highest class, "Manning's Entertainment" passes for the name of the combination, because it comes here under the personal direction of Edward Manning, one of the leading lights of the vaudeville firmament across the Atlantic. Mr. Manning has for years been identified with the Empire Theatre in London, one of the largest vaudeville houses in the world, and certainly the most famous. He says he has picked his acts very carefully for an American tour, and will open his season at the Richmond Casino, after which he will take the combination over the Wells circuit before the regular season begins in New York.

It will be remembered that the Vaudeville Managers' Association some time ago decreed that Richmond and Norfolk should be the first cities to be visited by all foreign acts. It is not, by any means, a case of "trying it on the dog," to use a theatrical euphemism, but merely a means of trying the metal of the performers and getting them into shape before they appear upon the metropolitan stage, which is both a distinction and a difference.

One act in this bill is well and pleasantly remembered here; it is the Kromanov White Tcherischev Trio, a Russian team that does the most remarkable vocal and histrionic "stunts" in gorgeous costumes and richest scenery. The act created a sensation when it was seen here last year, and was most cordially praised by the critics of this country.

The Kromanov Trio will be supported by four other great acts, all of them stamped with the favor of the European capitals, and the bill will close with a special series of vignette pictures of recent events of great historic interest.

The usual performances will be given with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday. The sale of seats will occur each day as usual at No. 918 East Main Street, and the public is earnestly requested to make reservations, so as to relieve the box office at the Casino as well as for personal convenience.

The names of the composers of "Under the Bamboo Tree," the "Congo Love Song," and "The Maiden With the Dreamy Eyes" (not to mention any more of the song hits of this gifted trio), are generally printed in the press as Cole and Johnson. The correct name, however, is Cole and Johnson Brothers, and they are Rob Cole, Rosamond Johnson and James W. Johnson. Naturally, it would be thought that they are more proud of their success as song writers than of anything else, but that is not so. As a matter of fact the only thing that seems to stir any evidence of egotism in them is their prowess as boxers. They live in handsome apartments, and every room except their reception room is filled with boxing machines, punching bags, and almost every appliance known to a well regulated gymnasium. Rosamond Johnson exercises as much as the others, only he does not indulge in boxing on account of his piano playing. His brother and Rob Cole, however, put on the gloves every morning, and while they are sparring, Rosamond generally plays a little tagtime.

They are telling a good story of Walter Jones, the well-known comedian, who is to star this season in the comic opera, "The Sleepy King."

Mr. Jones is spending his summer at Mackinac, Mich., and incidentally studying his part in the Hobart-Conterone opera. One afternoon, as he sat on the broad veranda of the hotel, a band of strolling musicians halted not far from him, and began playing such airs as "The Congo Love Song," "Hawatha," and "You Can't Fool All the People All the Time." Mr. Jones was annoyed, but as the other guests seemed pleased, he could say nothing, and left too lazy to go to his room, where he could have quiet.

Finally the music ceased, and the leader of the musicians passed among the guests, soliciting contributions. At length he reached Mr. Jones.

"Well, what do you want?" asked Mr. Jones.

"I have come for a small contribution, sir," was the answer.

"Indeed?" said Mr. Jones. "I thought you had come to apologize."

The recent revival of interest in the plays of Shakespeare is an almost certain indication that the public is tiring of the problem play and the dramatized novel. At any rate, interest in the works of the greatest dramatist of all time shows a very healthful condition of mind in the theatre-going public.

Among those who will revert to Shakespeare the coming season is Elizabeth Kennedy, who was so successful in the role of Madame Trenton in Clyde Fitch's "Captain Jinks of the Horse Marines" during an extended tour of the country last season. Miss Kennedy is making man will present Maude Adams this season is by Frances Hodgson Burnett. It is called "The Pretty Sister of Jose," and is in four acts and five scenes, all of which are laid in old Spain. The role Miss Adams will create possesses all of those qualities that blend so nicely with her art, and she is delighted with the play. Mr. Frohman will appreciate in an elaborate manner the rich opportunities the Spanish atmosphere gives for production. Miss Adams' season will begin in October, and her New York appearance will follow that of Mr. Drew at the Empire Theatre. Previous to rehearsals Miss Adams will visit friends in Colorado. Mrs. Burnett has been most anxious to have Miss Adams create the role in her new play, and she was most pleased when told of Mr. Frohman's decision in the matter.

Charles Frohman has selected for John Drew a new and original comedy in three acts, by Anthony Hope and Harrison Rhoades, entitled "Captain Dieppe." The scenes are laid in Italy, and the action is of today. Mr. Drew, as "Captain Dieppe," will have a light, comical character, with great favor. Mr. Drew, who has always opened his season in New York, will, for the first time, begin his appearance in a new play on the road. Margaret Hall will continue as Mr. Drew's leading woman.

One year after young Edwin Grasse, the American violinist, who made his first concert tour in this country this season, was admitted to the Royal Conservatory in Brussels, he won the first prize, with distinction, and in 1901 the "prix de Capriccio" was awarded him. "With the very highest honors," Edwin Grasse was a special student with Caesar Thomson, and he is a protégé of the great Joseph, upon whose advice he began his career in Berlin last year and met instant success.

The incidental music for Miss Viola Allen's production of Shakespeare's comedy, "Twelfth Night," promises to be an important feature of the presentation of the play, which is being especially selected and composed by Robert C. Jenkins, instructor of music in the American Academy of Dramatic Arts.
